Program Overview

Techbridge is an after-school program that encourages a diverse group of girls from low socioeconomic backgrounds and/or low academic performance girls in technology, science, and engineering. The program offers hands-on projects along with career exploration opportunities such as role model visits and field trips to companies. The goals for the program are to increase girls' technical skills, confidence, and interest in science and technology careers. Since its founding by Chabot Space & Science Center in 2000, Techbridge has served over 3,000 students across Oakland, San Lorenzo, and surrounding communities primarily serving underrepresented minorities. Due to its success, Techbridge was selected by the National Science Foundation as its "model program demonstrating significant achievement." Now in its eleventh year, Techbridge operates as a separate entity serving girls, families, schools, and district and community partners with access to resources to support students in science, engineering, and technology.

Techbridge is currently partnering with 21 schools in Oakland Unified School District, San Lorenzo Unified School District, Mt. Diablo Unified School District, and San Jose Unified School District. Within Oakland, the program partners with Lincoln Elementary, Fred T. Korematsu Discovery Academy, Esperanza Academy, Montera Middle School, Frick Middle School, Madison Middle School, Oakland Technical High School, Oakland Unity High School, and American Indian Public Charter School II.

Benefits for Girls

Skills Development through Hands-on Projects

Not many girls have the chance to work with their hands in the classroom; with Techbridge, however, they have the chance to build robots and take apart computers. Since girls may not ask to help with household projects or include tools on their wish lists, parents assume that they aren't interested. But our experience tells us otherwise. Techbridge curriculum encourages girls to build with LEGOS and fix household appliances. We see first-hand that experiences like these help girls find technology and engineering less intimidating and more interesting as career options.

Career Exploration

Because image is important to adolescent girls, we look to role models to show girls the interesting and useful applications for technology, science, and engineering. Why prepare for a career in technology if you think only nerds work with computers? Why consider a career in engineering if you have no idea what rewards come from design and engineering projects? Interactions with role models and field trips to worksites allow girls to learn about career opportunities first hand. Past field trips have included visits to Yahoo, Google, Intel, IDEO, Apple and UC Berkeley.

Leadership Development

Girls learn leadership skills, overcome their fears of public speaking, and develop a confident and engaging presentation style. In school and in the world of work, projects are often accomplished through teamwork and students learn how to communicate their ideas in Techbridge.

Teamwork

Techbridge encourages girls to expand their network of acquaintances and work with partners outside their circle of friends. Through icebreakers, the girls in Techbridge are encouraged to get to know one another. During circle time, they check in and discuss topics like career aspirations and recent achievements. In group projects, the girls develop interpersonal skills and learn to work successfully as part of a team.

"The Techbridge club has been wonderful for my daughter. She counts the days until the next meeting and mourns the periods of school vacation because there is no Techbridge."

- parent of Techbridge student

Highlight of Successes

Evaluation plays a critical role in the success of Techbridge. Not only does it help validate what we do and how we're doing it, but ongoing feedback helps us to continually refine our programs. Girls, parents and teachers participate in surveys, focus groups, and interviews as part of our evaluation process. Over the years, evaluation results have demonstrated how participation in Techbridge has helped girls in the following areas:

Developing technical skills and aptitude
Increasing self-confidence and leadership skills
Promoting greater interest in the fields of technology, and engineering
Sampling of Results

We distribute pre-surveys at the start of each of our programs, and post-surveys at the end. On post-surveys administered in 2011, students attributed the following gains in skills and confidence to Techbridge:

1. Skills Fostered by a Hands-on Approach to Science, Technology, and Engineering

95% knew more about how devices like simple machines work
93% felt more confident trying new things
83% were better at following directions

2. Learning to Think/Act Like a Scientist

91% learned that teamwork improves problem solving
90% felt more creative
89% felt more confident

89% planned to study harder now so they can go to college
85% tried harder to overcome a challenge and not get frustrated
84% were better at problem solving

3. Interest in Career Opportunities in Technology, Science, and Engineering

96% knew more about different kinds of jobs
95% believed engineering is a good career for women
85% were more interested in working in science, technology, or engineering thanks to role model visits and field trips
82% can see themselves working in technology, science, or engineering

Longitudinal Study

The Gordon and Betty Moore Foundation commissioned a three-year longitudinal study that helped us assess the long-term impact of Techbridge on students' academic and career choices. Results from this study show the program's lasting impact on past participants: 82% of respondents reported a greater interest in a career in technology, science and engineering; 86% had more self-confidence; and 87% had more career options because of Techbridge.
