Bentley School '14-'15 Plan

Assessment: What are our areas of need with regard to supporting the professional development of teachers? How do these areas relate to student academic achievement? What is the supporting evidence? (Evidence can include surveys, test results, Leadership Team input, etc.)

Bentley's Lower and Middle Schools would currently benefit most from attention to (exemplars listed below each area):

- Technology in the Classroom
  - Art is Education
- Curriculum Development
  - Readers and Writers Workshop
  - National Science Teachers Association
  - California Mathematics Council Conference
  - National Council of Teachers of Mathematics conference
  - National Art Education Association
  - Refining the Art of Coaching
  - World Languages: Total Physical Response Storytelling
  - Andy Hess, Balanced Literacy Consulting
- Social-emotional learning
  - Responsive Classroom
  - Social Emotional Institute
- Differentiated instruction
  - Learning and the Brain Conference
  - Council of Exceptional Children
- Leadership
  - National Outdoor Leadership School
  - Leadership Training Conferences (NAIS, CAIS)

Each of these areas has the potential to benefit student learning. By finding effective applications for technology, teachers can enhance students' experiences in the classroom. We are in the process of curriculum mapping across disciplines and divisions, and we will be assessing the efficacy of our curriculum and making some adjustments to it. Training teachers to understand the importance of social-emotional learning will directly impact student performance by fostering safe and nurturing learning environments. Helping teachers to develop their ability to teach to a wide range of students through differentiated instruction will meet the needs of all learners. And, finally, developing leadership skills for faculty and administrators will help our entire community function as a coherent, productive whole.

Faculty feedback about what would help them challenge students and improve their teaching, along with input from the senior leadership team, has identified these areas as ripe for development.
