This project will be led by co-Project Managers Judy Capaul from CPS HR Consulting and Tomi Nagai-Rothe from The Grove Consultants. Project Managers involve themselves directly in preparing and submitting project deliverables. No documents or materials of any kind are delivered to the client without the Project Managers' review and approval.

Project Approach/Methodology

It is our understanding that the Family, Schools and Community Partnerships (FSCP) department was recently created as a merger of two previously existing departments. This merger was implemented to more fully support the model of Full Service Community Schools for OUSD. In this model, schools act as a hub of the community by connecting with local partners to help provide academic, social and health services for students, their family members and the broader community.

Whenever two organizational units merge, there is a need to create or clarify vision, expectations, organizational structures, processes, and communication paths. Managing this change (and the organizational culture shifts that may accompany it) is the key to achieving successful outcomes. The FSCP department desires assistance to clarify its vision and identify strategies to align its organizational structure, systems, workgroups and communication methods around its vision to support the Full Service Community Schools (FSCS) model.

This proposal combines the expertise of The Grove and CPS HR Consulting to partially address those needs. First The Grove will collaborate with the FSCP department to develop a vision and high level strategies that will help manifest and support the FSCS model. Following The Grove's visioning and planning process, CPS will use the information generated by The Grove and the FSCP Department to create a blueprint that may be used by FSCP to align their staff around the vision. Often great ideas or new initiatives founder in organizations because the staff is not engaged or aligned with the vision or do not have the competencies needed to reach the vision. The blueprint will provide an outline of steps and a model that the FSCP Department may use to address staffing alignment and define a structure that will best position the department for successful outcomes. It will be built on three principles that have been used successfully with other clients:

- Transparency – Successful agencies communicate all aspects of the path to their vision throughout their organization, including: the organization's strategic goals; how the workforce is critical to meeting the organization's goals and initiatives; and how workforce management and strategic planning are linked.
- Engagement – Staff at all levels of the organization understand and actively contribute to working toward the vision – this includes frontline staff and frontline supervisors, union representatives, finance, IT and human resources (HR). Building buy-in ensures the products developed will support the leadership team goals in ways that are meaningful to the frontline staff.
- Sustainability – Building organizational capacity to reach a vision requires that workforce management be integrated into the organization's strategic management process.

The first step will be to develop a vision and high level strategies for the FSCP department. The deliverables will be:

- Bringing together a steering committee to develop a visioning and planning process for the department.
- Creating a vision and strategy map that will help communicate both the vision and the journey forward in a way that engages and enrolls stakeholders.
- Developing internal capacity to do similar work in the future.
- A management report presenting a blueprint and recommendations to be used by FSCP to develop an internal infrastructure that will facilitate the department's capability to achieve the vision.

To accomplish the above, we recommend the following work plan:

1. Collaborative design with a steering committee including:
 - A 2.5 hour face-to-face meeting with a design team of three to five department staff, including Curtiss Sarikey, to plan the one day visioning session
 - Two Skype or web meetings (up to 1.5 hours each) with the design team to review preparations and fine tune the agenda.
 - Pre-meeting work by The Grove to organize content about the current environment in which the department operates.
2. A one day meeting to develop a Vision and Strategy Storymap
 - Design and graphic facilitation with department and other district leaders (25 to 30 participants) to develop the first draft vision and strategies for FSCP in the context of the district strategic plan ("the triangle"). This will include a brief review of the current environment and a look at strengths, problems, opportunities and threats.
3. Design and Production (including two review cycles) of a wall-sized vision and Strategy Storymap (approximately 4 ft x 12 ft) and an electronic file.
4. Design of an Engagement Process for future use by department managers
 - Consult with the steering committee to design an engagement process for use by department managers
 - Design of a one hour engagement meeting that department managers could use to involve the rest of the department's staff in the vision and strategies.
 - Design and production of a one-page instructional sheet to help managers run the above meeting.
 - Production of smaller wall-sized Storymaps for the engagement meetings, along with 150 – 11 inch x 17 inch handouts – one for each member of the department.
5. A half-day Orientation Session for department managers.
 - Consult with the steering committee to design an orientation to tools and process used for Engagement.

- Graphic facilitation of a half-day session with department leaders to review and practice the engagement meeting process (with an orientation to the visual tools).
6. CPS HR will create a management report presenting an Organizational Alignment Blueprint and Recommendations. The basis for the recommendations will be:
- Information gleaned from the prior Vision and Engagement strategy sessions conducted by The Grove.
 - After consultation with the steering committee to identify successful FSCS Districts, CPS will conduct telephone interviews with up to five successful Districts to determine what organizational structure, communication systems and/or staff competencies help promote success.
 - In-person or telephone interviews of up to five District and/or Departmental staff with knowledge of internal processes or systems that might require change (chosen with recommendation of the Associate Superintendent and/or steering committee).
- The blueprint and recommendations will include:
- A review of the current organizational structures compared to the desired changes identified in the visioning and strategies sessions and the internal and external interviews.
 - An analysis and prioritization of the most critical “gaps” between current organizational structures (e.g., departmental organization recommendations, inter and intra-departmental communication/collaboration needs, etc.)
 - Recommendations on next steps the department might take to identify strategies to close the gaps.
 - Lessons learned relating to organizational structure from other FSCS Districts.
7. Two-hour meetings for a Progress Check and fine tuning at three and six months after final report.

As mentioned above, a guiding principle shared by The Grove and CPS HR is that we strive to ensure our work is sustainable. As a value added element, The Grove and CPS suggest the FSCP Department identify at least one or two employees to shadow the consultants and assist with both the meeting design and facilitation, and the development of the vision/process map. This will help embed these skills within the District for future use and enhance employee engagement in the vision and process. In addition, CPS HR will share with the FSCP Department a model that assesses broader workforce needs and examples of how that model has been applied in other public agencies.

Tomi Nagai-Rothe

Profile

Tomi Nagai-Rothe, a Senior Consultant for The Grove Consultants, has fifteen years of experience in both private and public-benefit organizations. She draws on group process, graphic facilitation and visual-design skills in her consulting practice, and teaches The Grove's methodology to individuals and groups. Currently, she is developing culturally sensitive ways to help groups capture their own ideas and images. Tomi joined The Grove Consultants International in 1988.

Tomi is often called on to lead strategic multi-stakeholder meetings for clients who need a big-picture view of their field. She uses large-scale graphics that enable groups to literally see what they mean. Tomi is particularly interested in the intersection between personal, organizational and social change. She strongly believes that leaders can make the biggest difference by aligning their personal vision with an organization's vision and social mission. Her aspiration as a teacher and workshop leader is to model servant leadership and the creation of work environments that foster peace in dynamic balance. She is currently developing culturally sensitive ways to let groups capture their own ideas and images.

Clients

Tomi has designed and facilitated meetings for Hewlett-Packard, Genomic Health and NRT, as well as the University of California–San Francisco, Duke University and the University of Michigan. Her work with environmental organizations includes The Natural Step, Urban Habitat, and the Farallones Marine Sanctuary Association.

Tomi regularly works in health care and with the cancer-treatment community. Her clients include the Tides Foundation Community Clinics Initiative, the California Health Care Foundation, the National Cancer Institute, the National Breast Cancer Coalition, and the National Coalition for Cancer Survivorship.

She has led strategic-visioning sessions for the Gila River Indian Community, the Colorado River Indian Tribes (Poston Restoration Project), and the Office of Indian Education Programs (Bureau of Indian Affairs).

Professional Experience

- Poston Restoration Project: Western Arizona is home to the Colorado River Indian Tribes (CRIT) and Poston, one of ten World War II internment camps for Japanese Americans. In 2003, the project brought together twenty-five people—CRIT members, former detainees and their families, educators and historians—who met on the CRIT Reservation to envision an educational tourist destination on the Poston site, one of two located on Indian reservations. A three-day strategic visioning session facilitated by Tomi resulted in a shared vision of a proposed interpretive center and the restoration of buildings to tell the combined story of the Colorado River Indians and the interned Japanese Americans.
- Genomic Health, Inc.: Genomic Health, a life-science company located in Redwood City, California, specializes in genomic diagnostics. Company leaders gathered in 2007 to imagine the company in ten years and to sketch out a product life-cycle plan. The one-day meeting, facilitated by Tomi, resulted in a product portfolio and lifecycle plan with milestones and a completion process agreed upon by everyone in attendance.

- Free to Grow: In 2006, Free to Grow, a personal-development training company near Cape Town, South Africa, asked The Grove to train its workshop leaders and clients in graphic facilitation. The company focuses on entry-level workers whose families have been historically disadvantaged and who struggle in the workplace due to low self-esteem and the need for greater job skills. Two Principles of Graphic Facilitation workshops led by Tomi (and assisted by Kara Nichols) taught The Grove methodology to fifty trainers, consultants and HR professionals, who are now using graphic facilitation in corporate and community settings.
