Preston Thomas, Executive Director for College and Career Readiness, introduced Kevin Schmidke, who works at Research Assessment and Data Department that created the spreadsheets to help support data for school sites.
Mr. Thomas spoke about:
- Diagnostic self-evaluation outcome indicator
- 5 goals that Measure N wants to see in the outcome indicators
- Decrease the high school drop-out rate
- Increase the high school graduation rate
- Increase middle school students' successful transition to high school
- The spreadsheet captures 3-year data, which includes disaggregated by race, ethnicity, gender, social economic status, English Learners status, special needs status, and zip code
- It provides the based-line data for all the schools
- Still working on internships
- What is considered a Cohort

Kevin Schmidke explained about:
- Over 400 thousand rows of excel data
- Breaks down by districts, schools, pathway, and the items on the goal list
- It's not design to give overall picture of what the school is
- It's design to focus on the specific group of students that they want to look at and see how those students are doing on the different goal areas
- # and % of student who graduate fulfilling A-G requirements
- # and % of students who graduate having completed an internship
- # and % of students who are enrolled and are persisting in postsecondary education
- # and % of students who are employed
