PROPOSAL FOR A SCHOOL CAFÉ AT REACH ACADEMY

Oakland Parents Together has been implementing a six week Parent Café series at REACH Academy since April 16, 2012, funded by Project LAUNCH. We are planning a seventh session to focus on school attendance, funded by AttendanceWorks. We would like to propose an 8th session which would pilot the concept of a School Café, involving both parents and school staff. This café would be an organizing project of the Parent Café. It would take place on Monday, June 4, 2012, 4-6 PM (the date and time are flexible). We would market it as a "Celebration of our Successes."

We would ask that teachers and parents mix themselves up so that each of the 6 or so tables has a representative number of each group. We would provide sufficient translators to make the process work without headphones. We will provide a nutritious dinner and child care. The café would begin with a dyad on the question: "What do you enjoy most about being a parent, a teacher, or both?"

There would be 3 table questions:

- 1. What are you proudest of achieving this school year as a parent or a teacher?
- 2. What are the strengths of REACH Academy?

3. What changes would you like to see at REACH Academy for next year?

The café questions would be followed by the Table Hosts summarizing the responses to the questions at their table. The facilitator will highlight common themes. OPT will type up the responses and mail to the café participants.

The café ends by asking each participant for a one word reflection.

Engaging Parents

Oakland Parents Together is dedicated to the idea that parents are the key to making schools work that an alliance between teachers and parents is the key reform that our school system needs. Research shows that students do better in school when their parents are engaged. It is also true that teachers are better able to reach their students if they have a relationship with their parents, an authentic partnership. Oakland Parents Together can help parents, teachers, adiministrators, and schools facilitate that partnership.
