HEROs inc. scope of work for Garfield Elementary

What	Why	How
Developing Social/Emotional resilience in students and sportsmanship in all students. Teaching strategies that avoid physical conflict and teach conflict resolutions skills.	Annually Garfield Elementary has analyzed that our highest levels of student suspension and discipline come from fights on our school year. Often time student conflicts form the yard carry over into the classroom and interrupt student focus and learning time.	Heros coaches will provide mentorship and support to students during recess. By teaching rules to games and conflict resolutions strategies, HEROs staff will support all students, including at risk students, to develop the mindsets and skills to increase their focus on academic performance.
Supporting Garfield staff to develop the social/emotional awareness of students and teach conflict resolution	Garfield staff encounter student interpersonal conflicts on the yard and in the classroom. It is important that our school is normed in our response to student conflict and conflict resolution, with a focus on decreasing fights and suspensions, while increasing student focus on academic performance.	HEROs staff will provide professional development to Garfield administration, classified and certificated staff on the use of games and activity to further enhance student social/emotional strategies to avoid conflict and resolve disputes.
Young HEROs program, an incentive based program that allows upper grade students to begin experiencing the roles and responsibilities of leadership on the yard.	Garfield believes that positive support and focus on leadership is a great strategy for supporting all students to strive to do their best, follow school rules and be recognized for making right decisions by helping others. This will help motivate scholars to do their best.	Heros coaches will mentor students in the young Heros program by providing them additional support to help “lead” on the yard and serve as a coach to younger grades. Passing along the lessons of conflict resolutions and social/emotional awareness.
Individual classroom support – teaching the rules of the game, sportsmanship and social responsibility on the yard and throughout the school day.	An analysis of Garfield discipline data has indicated that student bullying and fights are the top causes of student discipline and removal from class. A proactive strategy of providing individual classes the opportunity to work on these strategies through games an sports – so that teachers can utilize those same messages to support academics in the classroom	Heros will provide individual class lesson and support through activity and sports based lessons that teach the values of sportsmanship, sharing, and social responsibility for others. Heros staff will work in partnership with classroom teachers to support student social/emotional growth.
