Organizational Capability

The Latino Commission on Alcohol and Drug Abuse of Alameda County is a non-profit, tax-exempt community based organization established in 1971 to meet the needs of the Latino Community. The mission of the agency is to provide education, prevention, intervention and treatment of alcohol and drug related problems through a variety of multi-modality, culturally and linguistically appropriate programs and services.

The expertise of the Latino Commission on Alcohol and Drug Abuse of Alameda County has been in providing alcohol and drug prevention and treatment services to the Latino population of Alameda County for over 42 years. However, the agency does provide services to individuals who are not Latino.

The programs are all designed around the specific needs of population being served. In line with the organization's mission statement, all agency components are designed to be culturally and gender specific, Bilingual/Bicultural services. Program services provided at each component include: intake, assessment, information and referral, individual, group and family counseling, recovery and treatment planning, crisis intervention, case management, educational activities, job placement and referrals, anonymous and voluntary HIV testing, urinalysis, drug screen testing, other supportive services as needed or identified, and aftercare/alumni services.

A unique aspect of the Latino Commission on Alcohol and Drug Abuse of Alameda County services is that it clearly understands the role of the family and extended family within the context of an individual's recovery. Latinos share the basic historical and cultural experiences and conditions that reinforce a strong extended family orientation as an intrinsic value. Traditionally the family unit serves as a basis of support, nurturing the individual family members in their development. Hence, whenever possible all family members or significant others of program clients are assessed and referred to services as needed within the continuum of care.

The Latino Commission on Alcohol and Drug Abuse of Alameda County programs include:

Mujeres Con Esperanza, an outpatient alcohol and drug treatment program, for adult women experiencing alcohol and drug related problems. The site which houses Mujeres also houses the Women's Services Enhancement Program (W.S.E.P.) an outpatient perinatal substance abuse program targeted specifically to pregnant, postpartum and parenting women. W.S.E.P. provides cooperative childcare services on site. Mujeres is certified by the California Department of Alcohol and Drug Programs.

Family Services Center (formerly known as Si Se Puede) is an outpatient treatment program for adult men experiencing alcohol and drug related problems. The program is certified by the California Department of Alcohol and Drug Programs.

El Chante is a 20 bed recovery home for men. The program provides extensive alcohol and drug treatment program services for adult men over 18. El Chante is licensed and certified by the California Department of Alcohol and Drug Programs.

Centro de Juventud, is a center dedicated to the primary prevention of the use of drugs and alcohol by youth. Centro de Juventud offers a safe environment for youth to participate in alcohol and drug education presentations, tutoring, mentoring services, social and recreational activities and other structured team sports and activities aimed at promoting and supporting positive alcohol and drug free life-style choices. The building which houses the prevention program also houses Proyecto Primavera an outpatient alcohol and drug treatment program for youth between the ages of 12-18.
