in this will be needed and Bob Rollins has submitted paperwork to attend the Google in Education California Summit. Further conferences/workshops will be submitted as they arise.

- Divisional Director support will be needed. New Divisional Director Lizette Dolan will participate in the ongoing BATDC Experienced Administrator program to further develop leadership skills to implement new initiatives and school change. - Social – Emotional Learning and Student Achievement will focus on recognizing and regulating one's emotions and behaviors in order to achieve one's academic goals. The RULER approach is now a part of Yale University. Teachers will gain competency in helping children with recognition and self-regulation. SEL recognizes a broad definition of intelligence, which in addition to high academic expectations, is the development of social and emotional skills in order to be successful members of the classroom learning environment. Underlying this approach is the recognition that students will care more about learning if they feel they are cared for as individuals. An important component of the success of SEL is a positive classroom environment. Teachers work in a multitude of ways to create this environment ranging from the enthusiasm they show for their subject to encouraging students not to be intimidated by challenging content or the abilities of other students. Further, teachers are encouraged to use their leverage in positive ways, reminding students that learning is a process that takes time but by the same token, expressing disappointment or concern when work is not completed.
- Common Core Standards will include further work with both Jaine Kopp and Anne Diskin. We plan to have these professionals work further with grade level teams and grade level clusters to further understand the ramifications of the common core standards on literacy and math instruction and to provide professional development to staff to examine programs and necessary changes.
