OAKLAND CALIFORNIA YOUTH OUTREACH (OCYO)

Mission Statement

"We help Oakland's diverse younger population by interrupting and preventing gang violence; mediating conflicts; improving school attendance & performance; and by developing potentials for personal, job, and career success. From resource assistance for the more capable to in-depth guidance for the disadvantaged, we support our community's continued transformation – one unique person and neighborhood at a time."

About

Community violence is epidemic in urban areas throughout America. Our young people suffer its most lethal and devastating consequences. Despite being subject to seemingly insurmountable odds many inner city youths go on to lead meaningful and successful lives.

Today, under the new name of Oakland California Youth Outreach, the OCYO team is building real momentum. The "Street Outreach" staff gathers at its headquarters on MacArthur Boulevard throughout the week. The purpose is manifold: staff meetings to plan and share experiences, one-on-one sessions with young clients, training sessions, tracking progress of each individual served. And of course, serving as "Violence Interrupters" as incidents may occur throughout the assigned hot spots. Evening and weekends are particularly busy times as they maintain a presence on the streets.

Through "Street Outreach" and "Men of Influence," the OCYO teams build relationships within Oakland's most volatile areas. They host cookouts, maintain networks, mediate conflict, and stand on call for interventions throughout the week. Increasingly, we are moving toward a more vital role in support of the economic transformation underway in conjunction with our more active partnering relationships.
