New Teacher Center

When we focus on teachers, our students succeed

New Teacher Center (NTC) improves student learning by accelerating the effectiveness of new teachers and school leaders. By offering extensive and targeted support to new teachers via carefully crafted programs of training and mentoring (both one-on-one and online), NTC works to improve the overall effectiveness of the teaching profession, and to retain and sustain great teachers, especially in the country's hardest-to-serve schools where more than 50% of new teachers leave the profession within three years.

Research, including a two-year randomized control study funded by the US Department of Education, has shown that an intensive training and mentoring ("induction") model for new teachers can improve teacher retention, accelerate teacher effectiveness and increase the achievement of their students. Our model not only helps to create strong new teachers, but also improves their long-term success in their school districts.

NTC is identified across the nation with high-quality programs for new teacher mentoring and induction. At the heart of this work is the conviction that when we focus on teachers, we positively impact student learning and create positive, sustainable change in participating school systems. The Chronicle of Higher Education has called NTC the "gold standard" of induction programs.

In 2011, NTC trained over 7,534 mentors and 3,516 principals who supported 24,195 beginning teachers, touching the lives of almost 1.5 million students. NTC has grown from managing a handful of induction and mentoring engagements in 1998, to working in 35 states and approximately 250 school districts. The organization has a $19 million annual operating budget and a staff of 190.

With a main office in Santa Cruz, NTC also has offices in New York City, Chicago, Durham, and Wisconsin. NTC has had multi-year engagements with Austin, Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, New York City, Rhode Island, Tulsa, and other states and school districts over the past decade. In each case, we developed, structured, and supported large-scale teacher induction programs. These fee-for-service partnerships support more than half of NTC's operating budget.

Major foundations such as Carnegie Corporation of New York, Ford Foundation, the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation, the William and Flora Hewlett Foundation, the Skoll Foundation, and top venture philanthropy groups such as Full Circle Fund, NewSchools Venture Fund, New Profit, and SeaChange Capital Partners have all invested in New Teacher Center's growth. Philanthropic support allows NTC to continue to develop innovative products and services, enter new markets, and build organizational capacity.
