Ed Fund Beautifies Schools for First Day

The Oakland Public Education Fund spent the week before school started getting volunteers to schools across the District to prepare them to welcome students on Monday. More than 100 people visited dozens of schools in three hour shifts to move furniture, organize classrooms, offices, and library supply rooms, and to generally beautify the campuses. At Bret Harte Middle School, teams cycled out old books and replaced them with new ones to be ready for teachers and students, and they organized the family room where donated clothes and food were prepared for anyone who needs them. "Because of you, our school staff will be able to begin this new school year with much more ease and be able to place their focus on our students," said Nida Khalil, Bret Harte's Community School Manager.

Leadership Institute Includes 18 New Principals

This annual event is aimed at preparing principals and assistant principals for the upcoming school year. And this year’s institute included 18 new principals, and numerous new assistant principals, some of whom are products of Oakland schools themselves. Two new high school principals are products of Oakland schools, and one of them is now principal of the high school she attended.

Nidya Baez is the new principal at her alma mater, Fremont High School. “I am so excited. It’s a real privilege to be here at my home, and I’m very excited for the work that our staff is doing, and that we’ll continue to grow and build with.”

Martel Price, a graduate of Skyline High, has taken the helm at Oakland Technical High School as principal. “Feeling the need to continue to serve the teachers and the students, particularly the Black and Brown students at the school, where there are still some inequity issues.”

Burckhalter Receives New Play Structure

Volunteers from Burckhalter Elementary School, CarMax and Kaboom! installed a kid-designed playground to ensure students have a safe, inclusive place to play. It's part of a nationwide effort by KABOOM! to end playspace inequity, the reality that places to play are not available to every child, especially in communities of color. More than 250 children will get to enjoy the structure every day. "The installation of the new play structure on the Burckhalter playground is the manifestation of the OUSD Core Values of Students First, Equity, and Joy. Having access to a safe and fun community space in East Oakland defines play equity, or equal access for all kids to play regardless of race, ability level, gender, and zip code. And isn't that what all students deserve?" said Principal Carin Geathers.

3. Monitor: School sites outreach and engage families that do not attend in the first week of school.
4. Adjust: Progress Monitor through the “Schools to Watch” process for staffing adjustments made based on enrollment shifts.
5. Launch: Identify strategic growth schools/enrollment stabilization schools and begin increased outreach efforts in early Fall.
