CAMPUS PARTNERS:
MAKING URBAN DEBATE
WORK FOR YOUR STUDENTS

Speak. Learn. Lead.

Of indispensable importance to the work of the Bay Area Urban Debate League (BAUDL) is establishing a culture of debate in partnership with school leaders. This packet is intended to give principals and other campus partners an idea of what supports are necessary to see debate produce life-changing results on their campus – and what supports they can and should expect from BAUDL staff and volunteers.

THE BAY AREA URBAN DEBATE LEAGUE: WHO WE ARE AND WHAT WE DO

The BAUDL is a public-private partnership between a non-profit organization, the Bay Area Urban Debate Commission, and public school districts, which works to create and maintain debate teams in under-resourced high schools in the San Francisco Bay Area. The BAUDL will host 6 regular season tournaments this year, capped with a League Championship Tournament that engages young people in two days of competitive action.

Every tournament sees students speaking their minds on complex political issues in front of experienced judges, using evidence to support original arguments in an intense competitive event that challenges them to actively debate for a minimum of 5 hours. Our goal is to offer the kind of engagement and rigor that just isn't possible in traditional classrooms.

Before each tournament, the BAUDL hosts a five-hour Saturday workshop to prepare students for competition. During the summer, the BAUDL also hosts a five-day institute for both students and teachers, and provides scholarships for students to attend two-week institutes on college campuses across the country.

In addition to our external programming, BAUDL has piloted this year an A-G course in Public Policy, Argumentation, and Debate that uses voice-centered pedagogy to build skills of critical literacy, original research, and civic leadership. BAUDL provides regular professional development and training to two teachers on each campus to become successful debate coaches. The league also assigns a volunteer mentor, well versed in competitive debate, to each campus to support your team's growth and development. We promise to ensure that all of the external support structures necessary to see debate flourish on your campus will be strong and in place.

“Debate, which allows young people to speak their minds and be heard, turns out to be a near-magical tool for engaging those who are passionate only in their disengagement from school and the adult world.”

– Christopher Scheer, teacher and coach at Skyline High in Oakland

THE OUTCOMES

The BAUDL strongly believes in the capacity of debate to assist your campus in achieving its pedagogical goals by providing a positive educational experience outside of the classroom, incentivizing the learning experience, and targeting underperforming students in order to help close the achievement gap in our schools. In UDL settings across the country, debaters routinely build the following skills::

- ▶ IMPROVED ACADEMIC PERFORMANCE. BAUDL students significantly improve academic skills across the board. They maintain higher GPAs than their peers, and score higher on the ELA portion of the California Standards Tests. Their attitude toward academics also improves: in a survey of program participants, 98% agreed or strongly agreed that they would graduate high school, 91% stated that they will go to college, and 93% claimed that they learned a lot from debate.
- ▶ BUILDING A BRIDGE TO COLLEGE. The BAUDL helps to foster a culture of achievement and works with students to craft and implement ambitious plans for college. The approach has already generated impressive gains: 86% of the seniors participating in BAUDL in the 2009-2010 season went on to college and one student earned a full-ride debate scholarship at the University of Oklahoma.
- ▶ CLOSING THE GAP. The BAUDC's primary mission is to help close the achievement gap in Bay Area high schools. The BAUDL works actively to recruit and attract students who are falling through the cracks in the traditional classroom, directing the strongest attention to students with behavioral problems and/or poor academic track records. Debate empowers students to take control of the learning process and, in so doing, engages students who might under-perform in a traditional classroom.

Working in teams, debaters conduct original research, crafting and advocating proposals on dozens of complex policy issues.

The results generated by BAUDL come from debate's unique ability to empower students to take control over their own learning, to take pride in using their minds and voices to solve problems big and small, and to become leaders in their classrooms and communities. Because debate makes young people more eloquent and better able to express themselves, debaters can become ambassadors for intellectual success on your campus, demonstrating to all students beyond a shadow of a doubt that it is possible to be smart and popular at the same time.

The BAUDL draws support and best practices from a national network of partnering organizations: since 1997, 37,000 students from 350 urban public secondary schools in districts with approximately 87% minority and 78% low-income student populations have enjoyed the immense benefits of debate. Recently, a study conducted by researchers at the University of Michigan concluded that a black male student who joins his high school's debate team is twice as likely to graduate from high school than one who does not. The BAUDL is dedicated to replicating these successes in your hallways!

THE BAUDL MODEL: WHAT IT TAKES TO MAKE DEBATE WORK

The Bay Area Urban Debate League would not need to exist if students were already motivated to plow through mountains of research and engage with the hardest problems facing their communities and their nations. Opening up a pathway to competitive success and academic achievement for all the students in your school requires some teamwork between teachers, administrators, and the many staff and volunteers that BAUDL brings to the table. Below are a few steps that can enable debate to produce real results on your campus.

The core partnership:

- ▶ Recruit two teacher/staff members to be debate coaches, and secure a stipend to reward their hard work. Most of the coaches in our network spend an average of 5-6 hours per week on debate, and earn roughly $2500 for their time. In many cases, districts and afterschool partners can help secure this stipend.
- ▶ Make available school space for practices twice a week.
- ▶ Make time for a meeting with BAUDL staff at the beginning and end of each school year to discuss the team and how better to integrate it into the life and mission of the school.

Monthly BAUDL tournaments bring students together for hours of intense argumentation, a culmination of practice and hard work.

Seeding a culture of achievement through debate:

- ▶ Ensure appropriate recognition for the hard work of the debaters on your campus – names in the announcements, fliers in the hallways, acknowledgement at school assemblies. This part is easy to do – but also crucial, and easy to forget.
- ▶ Work with the BAUDL and/or your school's debate team to spread the word to potential recruits – classroom visits, assemblies, staff meetings, all can contribute to opening up the opportunity to participate in debate.
- ▶ Enable teachers to attend BAUDL professional development seminars toward PD requirements. Less than 3 times per year, this may require helping teachers to find a substitute for a day of classes.

Deepening the impact:

- ▶ Make space in the master schedule for BAUDL's A-G course. Running under the title Public Policy, Argumentation, and Debate, this course uses engaging voice-centered pedagogy to drive
- ▶ When possible, offer debaters academic credit for their participation on the team.
- ▶ When possible, make available snacks and drinks at team practices.
- ▶ When appropriate, offer incentive like prom tickets, pizza parties, or another gesture of support to those who demonstrate a commitment to the team.

WHAT WE BRING TO THE PARTNERSHIP

The BAUDL is dedicated to making debate an influential force in the culture of your school. To this end, we are not only eager to help train teachers, host workshops and competitions, and recruit volunteers, but also to explore other options that will help institutionalize debate on your campus. Some programs that we have successfully implemented in the past include:

- ▶ Organizing public debates during school assemblies
- ▶ Engaging BAUDL alumni as inspirational speakers for classrooms or assemblies
- ▶ Organizing speak-outs during lunchtime
- ▶ Working with teachers of any subject to incorporate debate and student voice into their curriculum

But this is only the start. We look forward to working creatively with you and your staff to find the set of strategies that works best on your campus.

- ▶ Tournaments and Workshops. The BAUDL runs six tournaments and seven workshops over the school year, bringing all member schools together to compete.
- ▶ Professional development. Teachers receive extensive support throughout the year and specialized training at workshops, seminars, and summer debate institutes.
- ▶ Team mentors. Experienced college debaters, trained and supported by BAUDC staff, are assigned to each school, helping teachers to develop curriculum and run engaging practices.
- ▶ Travel and glory. From public debates to travel opportunities, BAUDL helps bring the glory for the hard work our young students invest..
- ▶ Summer programming. The BAUDL hosts its own week-long summer institute, and sends students every year to prestigious summer institutes on college campuses.
- ▶ Supporting materials. The BAUDL generates and gathers hundreds of pages of debate evidence, research guides, curriculum, and classroom handouts to benefit its teams.
