How will this grant contribute to sustained student achievement or academic standards?	The experience of nature is a fundamental human right with benefits for individuals, communities and societies. It is well-documented that spending time outdoors in nature improves physical and mental health, emotional well-being, learning capacity, productivity, resilience, and social cohesion. As such, the mission of Oakland Goes Outdoors (OGO) is to increase opportunities for Oakland students to regularly experience the outdoors. According to the California Surgeon General's Report (2020), nature increases opportunities for relationships and connections, restful sleep, family functioning and attachment, social ties, cognitive functioning and attention, psychological well-being, and meaningfulness. The wellbeing of students, school communities, and their families not only help with overall physical and mental health outcomes, but also allow students to more deeply engage with each other and their surrounding environment. Oakland Goes Outdoors (OGO) is a grant-funded program of the Oakland Unified School District. Oakland Goes Outdoors (OGO) is one of the first school district-wide programs in the United States that seeks to provide regular outdoor learning experiences to all students attending a public school within Oakland Unified School District (OUSD).
